John Walters at the Point of Death | Seven People Seriously Injured, and and His Son Badly Wounded.

The Doctor Held to Await the Result of the Wounded Men's Injuries.

Dr. Nathan Wolf, of 608 Broadway, Williams burg, a short, harmless-looking little German with light hair and whiskers, was a prisoner in the Second District Police Court, Brooklyn, this morning, charged with assault in the first degree upon John Walters, of 136 Troutman almost dying condition at St. Mary's Hospital, with an ugly stab in the abdomen, while his son, with severe cuts on his hand, arm and occupied a sick-bed at home.

removed to St. Mary's Hospital. Valentine's wounds were dressed by the family physician at the house.

At the hespital this morning it was said that Walters's chances for life or death were about even. The principal danger feared was that peritonitis might set in.

To an Evening Would reporter Dr. Wolf admitted that he stabbed the Walters, but said that he did it in self-defense.

"I was walking along quietly in front of the house," he said. "when the first thing I knew Walters came rushing out at me and grabbed me, yelling: I will kill you.

"Then I drew my lancet and struck him. His son then came out and grabbed me and I struck him with the lancet, too."

Wolf denies that he has neglected his wife or children, and says she voluntarily left him.

Wolf was committed to fail pending the results of the Walters' injuries. He will be arraigned Nov. 8.

from Fresident Eii Goddard, who makes a summary of alleged facts to disprove the Colonol's statements.

Mr. Goddard declares that at the annual election last year it was discovered that Mr. Shepard and his friends owned more than one-third the cutire stock of the Company, and when it was proposed to issue bonds and execute a mortgage to raise funds for the erection of stables Col. Shepard and his friends objected and the vote was thereby loss.

Other efforts being unavailing, Mr. Goddard says it was decided to accept Mr. Shepard's offer to provide a stable and supply other necessities with the provision that the control of the Company be turned over to him.

Mr. Goddard states that the stages were stopped from running on Sundays in obedience to Mr. Shepard's request, thereby entailing a a loss of $20,000 a year to the Company.

He declares that Mr. Shepard has redeemed none of his promises, and furthermore has attacked the Company in his paper, thereby impairing its credit, and by his controlling interest has prevented the Company from obtaining time from its creditors.

In regard to the management of the Company, Mr. Goddard says he courts the most rigid investigation into the books and acts of the officials.

The crisp and biting air of these days and the bustling activity of trade are reminders that the oyous holiday time will soon be upon us. Already many of the shop windows are blosoming in bright, warm hues, and holiday goods are being ordered or packed, received of shipped by the various great houses of New York in anticipation of a great trade in the things which go to make up the offering of St. Nicholas to his loved ones.

It is with this in mind and the remembrance of the gorgeous displays made by enterprising dealers in their broad show windows that The EVENING WORLD hit upon the idea of offering something in the way of encouragement to the men and women of taste and artistic eye who concoct and build these visions from Fairyland for the pleasure of the shopper's eye.

And therefore THE EVENING WORLD will present a large, heavy and elegant gold medal.

The police say he was under the influence of liquor.

Since July last, Mrs. Wolf has not lived with her husband, but, with her two children, has resided with the Walters, who are her consins. It is claimed by them that Wolf abused and neglected his wife, so that she could not live with him; and they have done all in their power to keep him away from her.

This, of course, has incensed Dr. Wolf, and a lively fend has sprung up between him and the Walters. Last night Walters says Mott railed at the house and asked to see his wife. Mrs. Walters, who came to the door, would not grant his request. John Walters, her husband, ordered Wolf to leave, and when he did not, it is said, pushed him away.

Dr. Wolf then drow a physician's lancet and plunged it into Walters's stomach. The wounded man fell back into his wife's arms, and his son, valentine, then appeared and took up the struggle with Wolf, who cut him also savagely in the hand, arm and back, and then fied, but was quickly arrested.

An ambulance was called and the elder Walters removed to St. Mary's Hospital. Valentine's wounds were dressed by the family physician at the house.

Ex-Senator Dunham has declined the Tammany nomination, and the men who put him in nomination have passed a resolution agreeing to indorse any County Democracy candidate who is "neither under indictment, nor a furtive from justice, nor one whose attempt to plunder the treasury was only frustrated by the intervention of the courts."

The last clause was introduced to dispose of Waterbury, ir., whose claim against the city for $10,000 for legal services was cut by the Supreme Court to $2,000.

The vacancy on the fusion ticket in the Seventh Senate District, occasioned by the refusal of Samuel Gompers to accept the nomination, has been filled by the nomination of Frederick W. Diehi, an Eighth Assembly District County Democracy man and a clerk under ex-Corporation Attorney Boyd.

In refusing the nomination Mr. Gompers denied that he had made any pledges in return for being made a candidate, as has been charged. It is known that when approached on the subject of which caucus, the Republican or Democratic, he would go into if elected, he declined to commit himself.

F. ROESCH. New Running for Senator in About the Hettest District in Town-His Good

Democrats and Republicans on a nominee for the thousands of voters who two years ago have named as their standard bearer in this Assemblyman Rossch, whose portrait is here born at 34 Avenue A, June 19, 1855.

He received his education at St. Nicholas Parcehial School, De La Salle Academy and the Columbia Law School. He also studied law in the offices of Cyrus Lawton and Barnum & Bebhaun, and was admitted to practice in October, 1876.

Since he attained his majority he has been in great demand by his party as a stump-speaker, and did yeoman's service for the Democracy in the Presidential campaigns of Tilden, Hancock and Cleveland, making speeches in this and other States, both in English and German.

Assemblyman Rosseh's legislative record began with his election to the Assembly in 1883. He was re-elected in 1885, 1888 and 1889.

In 1888 he was the union candidate and received 5,000 votes. The following year, so popular had he become, that, with the County Democracy running a candidate against him, he received 400 more votes than in 1888.

His popularity was due to the course which he pursued with reference to labor measures before the Legislature, he having been a consistent advocate of proper legislation for the advancement of labor's interests.

In the first year of his experience as a legislator he introduced and secured the passage of the Tenment-thonse Cirax bill and introduced a bill facilitating legislation in the courts of the poor—the Civil District Courts.

At this same session he voted for the Five-Cent Fare bill, to abodish convict labor, to reduce hours of labor and to prohibit the employment of children under thirteen years in factories.
